Finding a Suitable Set of Journals

Methods:

① Keyword Search

- Use Google Scholar to search for papers with similar keywords and note the journals they're published in.

② Journal Recommendation Systems

- Use *Journal Finder of Elsevier*¹ or *Journal Search of Springer*² to find suitable journals based on your paper's topic and scope.

²<https://link.springer.com/search?facet-content-type=Journal>

Selecting the Appropriate Journal

Filter conditions:

① Journal's Level

- Quartiles: Q1, Q2, Q3, Q4
- CCF Ranking: A, B, C

② Journal's Scope

- Journal's website: Check the scope
- Submission system: Check "Select Submission Classifications", more accurate
- Latest papers: Check the latest papers, find the most related ones

③ Journal's Review Time

- Average review time: Find the newest issue, check the review time of the latest papers
- Experience posts: Find posts about the journal, like on the Letpub website

Using Editorial Manager for Submissions

- ① Tutorial: A tutorial for using Editorial Manager (EM) as an author is available on Bilibili⁵.
- ② Tips:
 - Be aware of specific files that need to be updated, such as the Highlight.
 - If you change your Corresponding Author, the submission will be transferred to the new Corresponding Author's account. You will no longer be able to see the submission in your original account.
