Writing a Paper

Jiahao Xiang[1]

[1]Hengyang Normal University

May 1, 2024

Content

Viewer Perspective

- Interesting: The main idea can be quickly understood, enticing the reader to continue.
- Novel: The reader can learn something new, indicating the amount of new knowledge provided.
- Useful: The results are high-quality, the methods are practical, and the conclusions are reasonable.
- Well-written: The paper is well-organized, the language is clear, and the grammar is correct.

Perfect Tools

- Experiment Environment: MATLAB, Python, etc.
- Reference Manager: EndNote, Mendeley, etc.
- Writing Tools: LaTeX, Word, etc.
- Figure Tools: Visio, Drawio, etc.
- ⋯

Content

Interesting

- Title: The title should be concise, informative, and highlight the main differences.
- Abstract: The abstract should be clear and concise. It should primarily present the main idea.

Novel

- Introduction: Present the research background and the main question that the paper addresses. Provide a concise description of the main idea.
- Related Work: The related work section should be comprehensive and detailed. Highlight the differences between your work and existing literature.
- Method: The method section should explain what to do and why to do it. The method should be clear and easy to understand.

Useful

- Experiment: The experiment section should be detailed and reproducible. The results should compare the most recent and reliable data.
- Discussion: The discussion section should be concise, advantageous, and reasonable.

Well-written

- Grammar: The grammar should be correct, and the language should be clear.
- Organization: The paper should be well-organized, with a clear structure and logical flow.
- Figures: The figures should be clear, informative, and well-labeled.

Content

Submission

- Journal Selection: Choose a journal that is suitable for your paper. consider the journal's scope, review time.
- Submission System: Follow the submission guidelines and submit your paper.

Revision

- Response Letter: Write a response letter addressing each of the reviewers' comments individually. Ensure there's no confusion about the reviewers' comments and think carefully before responding.
- Revision: Revise your paper according to the reviewers' comments and highlight the changes you've made.

Thank you for your attention!